

THE REASON WHY.

If the Democrats of this Coast do not wish to lose their grip entirely, they will do well to dismiss from their employ the San Francisco Examiner as a special pleader in the case of the people of the United States vs. Grover Cleveland et al.

The Examiner in stating the course of Cleveland ought to do as some of his journalistic admirers do in the East, they shout for the Democratic party and carefully avoid any allusion to Free Trade.

The Examiner, however has seriously set about the task of defending and extolling it.

It takes the case of California and shows that the lowest wages are paid by protected industries.

It does not substantiate its statement by producing any statistics on this subject; either from a labor or tariff source, but contests itself with the bare assertion.

It points to the fact, that the manufacture of cigars and boots are both protected by the tariff and that the wages are lower in these branches of industry than in any other in California.

Tobacco is mostly raised in the United States and the price of cigars is not so much affected by the tariff as the Internal Revenue tax the very sort of a tax that most of the Democratic press maintain is the only correct thing in taxation.

The cause of low wages in the manufacture, of boots, shoes, and cigars is not the tariff at all, but the ruinous competition of Chinese labor.

In spite of the fact that the Chinese have entered this field of industry, the fact still remains that large numbers of white workmen in San Francisco make a good living manufacturing boots and cigars.

Now suppose we take the tariff off boots entirely inside of ten years the entire boot and shoe industry of the United States would be transferred to China.

It would be an easy thing to establish vast plants for the manufacture of boots and shoes in China and then ship them to this country.

A pair of boots costing $2.50 in wages in this country could be made for 25cts in China or less and sold at a large profit for $1.00.

If this is true of boots and shoes, it would soon become the same with all kinds of manufactures for it is folly to assume that the Chinese, the most imitative race in the world, could not in a few years do anything with tools and machinery now done by American workmen.

With the tariff taken off all manufactured goods, the time would not be far distant when the wheels of American manufacture would cease to revolve, the furnace pins would die out, the spindle no longer hum in the factories and all the machinery of our workshops be transferred to the Celestial Empire, where men toil for three cents a day and feed themselves.

Under this State of affairs how does the Examiner suppose the wages of boots and cigars makers would compare with the wages they are receiving at present.

Their present wages is not due to the tariff, but the Chinese.

AN OPEN CONFESSION.

The San Francisco Examiner has announced that there would will be no partisanship in the news columns, and gives an indication of intending to keep his word. While in its editorial columns it is for Free Trade and English Commerce, it has the boldness to print the following in its telegraphic dispatches:

LONDON, June 10.—The Times say: Since the St. Louis nominations, the Cobden Printing Works, at Manchester, have received orders for 2,000,000 bandana handkerchiefs to be used to elect Mr. Cleveland as President of the United States. It is understood that President Cleveland suspends the tariff in this case, and that the goods will be admitted into New York free of duty. This is an encouraging entering wedge in the coming revolution of our commerce with America. They have put on 300 extra hands, who with their large force, are working night and day to turn them out. All other goods have been dropped.
